

Executive Board of Kansas Professional Communicators Receives Assignments

Wichita native Wilma Moore-Black has been elected president of the Kansas Professional Communicators. Moore-Black, along with two other KPC board members, is active with the Wichita Professional Communicators. Elections were held April 17 in Council Grove at the organization's annual spring conference. Jill Miller was elected vice president-membership and Becky Funke, treasurer. Miller owns Creative Business Solutions in Wichita, and Funke is editor of Active Aging.

Other officers elected were Jane Lee of Kansas City as vice president-bylaws and Amy Eck of Ellsworth, secretary. Gwendolynne Larson of Emporia will serve on the executive board as the past president of KPC.

There are plenty of positions for you to get involved. As you review the organizational chart below, consider a place where you can share your skills and support to KPC. You can reach me directly at 316.978.6113 or 316.213.6265.

During the state conference, more than 100 communication contest awards were presented for recognition of writing, editing, design, photography and other professional communication skills. State scholarships were given to area college students. Those winners and national award recipients will be in the next issue.

Wilma Moore-Black

From the desk of the KPC President

You have elected new officers who are excited and busy with projects that will move our organization forward during the next two years. Les Anderson of Wichita State University's Elliott School of Communication will serve as the state communications contest director. More details about that contest are announced on the opposite side.

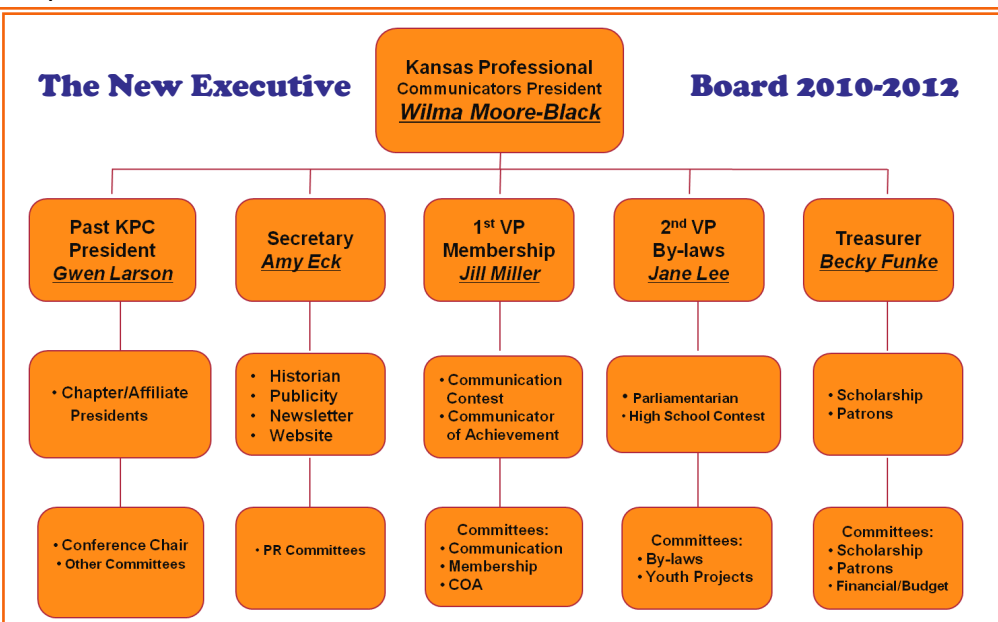

KPC is your source for professional development and major networking opportunities and is affiliated with the National Federation of Press Women. We will observe our 70th anniversary on April 30, 2011, in Topeka, the capital city of Kansas. Kathy Souter and Jill Miller, both of Wichita, will be serving as co-chairs of this year's conference. They'll be sending out more information. You should start making your plans to reserve rooms at the Capitol Plaza Hotel.

A Message from the National President Cynthia Price

Hi NFPW Members,
The holidays are approaching at the speed of light. I was hoping we could have a little fun with our next Agenda issue. If you could take a moment, I would love for you to respond to this question. What has been your most favorite/memorable gift you ever received at this time and why? Please include your name, when you received the gift, from whom, and the age you were when you received it..

Please send your responses by Dec. 1. to the NFPW Agenda Editor, Linda Koehler:

lkoehler@tnonline.com
Happy Thanksgiving!

Win
AWARDS
4 YOUR WORK

ENTER Kansas
Professional Communicators'
Communications
Contest

First-place winners advance to national competition!

Categories

news • public relations advertising • photography
electronic & new media

ENTRY DEADLINE

Tuesday, Jan. 18, 2011

For more information:
Les Anderson, KPC Communications Contest Chair at 316.978.6065 or Wilma Moore-Black, KPC President at 316.978.6113